STORM AT WUCHOW.

(From Our Own Correspondent.)

WCCHOW, May 2. We have begun with the usual summer storms. During the hot months they frequently burst dpon us in the afternoous. In fact at certain periods they come with almost clock-like regularity. We have had one or two lately of exceptional severity, but the worst swept over us to-day. The 580 wind was of unprecedented violence and came upon us with peculiar suddenness, It was so unexpected that the bosting population had little time to prepare for it. Many of the smaller boats have "been wrocked and it is said that there have been considerable loss of life. The poorer houses suffered severely, roof tiles, woodwork and bamboo erections being swept away. The pontoons of the I. M. Customs service together with those of some of the shipping Companies have been damaged. It is a long time since we were visited with

The King, as everybody knows, has a weakness for walking-sticks, but a writer in the Woman at Home tells of another collection in his Majesty's possession which will have a unique interest in the future. This consists of relics gathered together from every war in which British soldiers have fought since the early days of Queen Victoria. The King has also a quaint assortment of the programmes of every opera, play, and concert which he has attended since he came to years of discretion. One would imagine this to be a bulky collection. Queen Alexandra collects many things-lace, china, crystals and tiny objects made in precious and semi-precious stones. But her greatest treasure is a collection of books, most of which came to her by inheritance. When Princess of Wales she received the Mitchell Bequest that took the form of a choice collection of books, valued at £10,000. And afterwards the late Sir William Fraser bequeathed to her Majesty a splendid collection of books, papers, and pictures which dealt with the subject of women's dress during the last century. The Queen has also a vast numter of volumes of modern literature.

SCOTTISH LETTER.

(Erom Our Own Correspondent,) MORS DRITISH INDIA, LINERS.

Messrs Barciny, Curlo, & Co., Whiteinch, are building two steamers for the British India Steam Navigation Co., in addition vessels more recently placed are about the same size as the others,-4200 tons gross, -but they will have more passenger accommodation, and a speed of 164 knots. as compared with 141 knots. All the four ressels are intended for the Eastern service, and will trade between Calcutta and Chinese and intermediate ports. They will carry a considerable number of native passengers, and also a large deadweight of

3. The contract between the Admiralty and the four leading Scottish oil companies for the supply of 10,000 tons of fuel oil hasgiven a fillip to the industry which it very much needed. The opening up of new shale fields is confidently expected. There is still a large unprospected area in Scotland which may be reasonably expectto contain shale beds. Indeed, more than, on - authority holds that the shale deposits extend north, all the way under the Firth of Forth, while present geographical knowledge favours the view that shale is to be LATE found in other directions.

CHINA AND BRITISH POLICY

The following telegram, dated London, 'April 29, appears in the N.C. Daily News:-The Government's replies to the daily questions about China have excited the keenest interest and comment. Independent papers denounce the gavasiveness of the roplics. The Globe; under the title "The Paralyzed Foreign Office," asserts that there is growing reason to distrust Sir Edward Groy's Far Eastern Policy. The paper views with concern the besetting tendency to avoid all trouble, initiative and responsibility, even at the expense of a very considerable sacrifice of British interests. His extraordinary weakness-in connexion with the Chinchou-Aigun Railway is a case in point. The Globe continues: "The Government does nothing to help British mer-chants in Manchuria. Everyone will be glad if Sir Edward Grey uses such influence as remains to him to support the work of British Subjects in the Orient."

CHINA ASSOCIATION. The Financier eulogizes the effort to galvanize the China Association into life, (sic), and asserts that, if British interests are to remain permanent in China, closer co-ordination of commercial, financial and political interests must be adopted. This could only be undertaken by the Foreign Office in conjunction with the more important commercial groups, CHINCHOU-AIGUM BALLWAY. A series of questions in the House of Commons, notably by Earl Winterton, Unionist member for Horshum, and Mr J. F. Remnant, Unionist member for Finsbury, have been directed to inciting Government support for the British finan-

Replying to Mr Remnant, Mr McKinnon Wood, Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, declared that, after consideration of the treaty conditions, there appeared nothing unreasonable in the attitude of Russia and Japan in regard to the Chinchou-Aigun Railway. Mr Remnant asked whether the Government would give the same backing to the Bri ish groups as did other nations to theirs. Mr McKinnon Wood replied that the action of financial groups was entirely independent of the Government. CILINESE PORK.

There still exists much agricultural agitation against Chinese pork, of which. 16,800 carcases were re-exported last month because they were without backbones. .Mr John Burns, President of the Local Government Board, duclared in the House that these were all white pigs, not "black scavengers."

NATIONAL DRINKING PROPENSITIES.

VERY gratifying were the figures which Mr G. B. Wilson, Secretary of the United Kingdom Alliance, furnished to the press in April concerning the drink bill of the British nation. Having considered the effect of increased duties and prices, he says :- "I estimate the total expenditure of the United Kingdom on alcoholic liquors during 1909 now it looks as if Sugar is to be the latest at £155,162,485, as compared with £161,060,482 in 1908. There has, therefore, been a decrease in expenditure of £5,897,997. On spirits the decrease was £4,800,000, with a decrease in consumption of 7,022,775 gallons. On beer the decrease was £1,186,000, with a decrease in consumption 645,296 barrels. On wines, on the other hand, there has been an increase of £93,000; with an increase in consumption of 103,644 gallons. If there had been no increase in prices, the reduction on the total expenditure would have been £11,147,998. In 1909 the average, expenditure per bead was £3 8s. 114d. and per family of five persons £17 4s. 9 d., compared with £3 12s. 3 d. per. head and £18 Is. 63d, per family in 1908. These figures are, of course, no real indication of what was spent by the adult population which actually consamed the liquor. It is estimated that this class numbers about 55 per cent, of the total population, so that on this basis the per capita expenditure is approximately £6 5s. per person. Three- special causes have been operation during 1909 to reduce the a consumption of alcoholic liquors. The diminishing consumption, though some extent attributable to the recent depression in trade, is principally the

The increasing sobriety of the great majority of the people of England -- once branded as a race of hopeless "hard Commission of Economic Expansion of drinkers"-has been frequently commented on of late years, particularly by Chancellors, of the Exchequer who ist and the tourist in this wonderful viewed with mixed feelings the falling off in excise receipts which thus resulted Doubts, too, were freely expressed as to the permanence of this striking change in the habits of a very conservative race; But the figures given above seem to place the matter effectually at rest, for the decrease in the consumption steady and continuous. England is undoubtedly growing more sober: whether she is improving morally at the same ratio is, however, still an open question. Curiously enough, if we are to believe the American papers, quite a different state of things exists in the non-Prohibition portions of the United States. The National Prohibitionist, to be taken to hospital. perhaps a rather extreme organ, sees looming up ahead the possibility of the Americans becoming a nation of drunkords. It deduces this fear from statistics giving the number of arrests for drunkenness for three separate periods. In 1902 there were 1,015,953 arrests; in 1905, 1,212,574; in 1907 1,369,361, an increase of more than one-third in the course of five years At first sight the average man wi readily jump to the conclusion that the increase of arrests merely signifies S. MOUTRIE & Co., increased police activity, but our contemporary solemnly avers that must be remembered that this appalling increase has taken place in the face of the growing tendency upon the part of the police officials of all our cities in license States to make the lowest addition of £1,400 on the year; while the possible number of arrests for drunken-Drunkenness then is really on of these figures is that in 158 of the per member.

Billiards.

There were stirring times at Messrs Thurston's Grand Hall, Lendon, during the week ending April 9th, when Reeco and Inman met in an 8,000 match for £50 a side. The match is likely to find a place in the history of the game and the remark-able feat accomplished by Reece of scoring breaks of 559 and 549 in one day will be remembered when other incidents of the match are long forgotten. In addition to this Reuce compiled nineteen breaks of 100 and over, three of 200 and over, and one of over 300, while Inman kept his end up in great style with seven breaks of 100 and over, six of 200 and over, one of over 300 and one brilliant 462. Imman won by the narrow margin of 313 points, but advantage was gained in the last 500 as the scores at one time were called "7,437 all."

Report of the Director.

An interesting document was laid on the table 'as this afternoon's meeting of the Legislative Council in the form of the report of the Director of the Hongkong Observatory (Mr F. G. Figg) for the year 1909. It ran as follows :---

3. From the commencement of the month of June, the weather map made daily for use in the Observatory has been reproduced on a scale suitable for exhibition, and copies have been posted at the following notice boards :- The Harbour Office, Blake Pier and the Ferry Company's Pier. These maps while showing the broad features of pressure distribution are necessarily lacking in detail. It must be remembered that the telegraphic reporting stations are situated almost entirely on the sea-board and with the exception of a couple of stations on the Yangtze river, the interior of the continent is unrepresented. Notwithstanding these disadvantages it is believed that the public has found the maps useful and applications for copies have been received from several persons. But as those at present exhibited have to be made by hand, it has not been found possible to meet their wishes, and in the present state of our communications the expense of reproducing the map for distri-

Hongkong and Canton Enterprise.

It is a fact now scarcely needing emphasis that the ultra-conservatism of the Chinese people is slowly but surely giving place to a surprising adaptation to modern conditions. In no matter more so than in the utilisation of inventions which are veritable boons in industrial and domestic activities is this demonstrated. A striking instance tion, so apt to occur at these times, in the of this fact is just now being afforded in Canton and Hongkong, and one of which little is known by the European communities, to whom it will come as somewhat of a pleasing surprise. It is the adaptation of the modern sewing-machine to the 5. The Imperial Maritime Customs execution of silk embroidery work. The The Wild Heart, by H. E. A soldier in the German Army, who recently attempted to dommit suicide, was sentenced to seventeen days' imprisonment, not for attempting suicide, but for stealing the bullet with which he shot himself. A number of thefts had taken place in the barracks, and the soldier in question was apprised that suspicion fell on him. He took the accusa ion so to heart that he determined to commit suicide. He accords ingly stole one cartridge from the storeroom, and, using his own rifle, fired into his mouth. The shot shattered his jaws and also caused him to lose the ai ht of both eyes. The courtmartial discharged the man on three counts of theft, but sentenced him for stealing the cartridge.

THE FASCINATING PURSUIT OF GUN-RUNNING.

A British Naval Officer contributes an interesting article to the Graphic on gunrunning in the Persian Gulf. The arms are lauded, he says, at the town of Muscat in. Arabia near the entrance to the Persian Gulf. They are then shipped scross to Persia in dhows, the cargoes being deposited in lonely caves on the Mekran coast of Persia, where they are met by caravans and carried across the Persian Desert into Afghanistan to be sold to the savage tribesmen on the Indian frontier. No law exists against the exportation of arms from Mekran, except for such as are proved to be consigned to Persia and certain other countries where the Persian Government permits no importation, Each year a blockade of Mekran is instituted by British ships in order to prevent the illegal operation of dhows. The dhow is loaded with a cargo of rifles and ammunition in one of the secluded bays, with which the coast of Oman abounds, and many are the contrivances, such as secret trap-baches and false sides, which are used to conceal the contraband. The cargo is then covered with an innecent stock of firewood, dates rice or mats, and the skipper waits until he hears that a cruiser is temporarily absent from her best. Then, if he guts a favourable slant of wind, he dashes across, generally arranging to arrive in the most dangerous area under cover of darkness. If caught, he and his crow will be taken prisoners, a prize will be made of his craft, and his cargo will be destroyed. But, on the other hand if he manages to slip through in his dhow without being seen, and succeeds in landing his arms and ammunition, what glory he willowin, and what a fine sum of freight money he will earn!

Hongkong Tides.

The tide table given below has been compiled at the Nautical Almanac Office in London from the result of the analysis of observations taken by means of an au tomatic tide-recording machine in the Wa ter Police Basin at Talm Sha Tsui during the years 1887-8-9. The zero of the table corresponds with the zero of the soundings in the Admiralty Chartz which has been found to be 4 feet Sinches below mean sea level. To obtain the depth of water on the tide yauge at the Victoria Naval Yard add 3 feet 4 inches, and on the gauge at Lamont Dock, Aberdeen, add 10 feet 6 inches to the height given in the table.
